March 2017

Set clocks forward 1 hour

2 am Sunday, March 12th.

March 1 is the beginning of Lent. This is a time of 40 days where we remember the suffering of Jesus before his death and resurrection. The number 40 has great significance in the Bible and is mentioned 146 times, mostly in reference to testing, trial and purging. The Great Flood saw 40 days and nights of straight rain causing the drowning of every human except Noah and his family. The people of Israel wandered for 40 years in the wilderness before entering Canaan. Jesus fasted and was tempted in the wilderness for 40 days before entering into ministry. Jesus was faithful to the end, in spite of his suffering hunger, deprivation and Satan's attacks. Since he has led us in victory we rejoice in his completed work. This is the gospel. And yet as we consider him who endured such opposition...in order that we not grow weary or lose heart, let us run the race with perseverance and throw off the sin that so easily encumbers us. It is customary for believers to give up something for Lent. The idea of a fast is intended to focus us more on the Lord and less on our wants and needs and desires. What do you need to fast from? Whatever that is, let us turn from ourselves and set our eyes on Jesus the Author and Perfector of our faith.

Pastor Edward

Mission News

From the Facebook page of Norine Brunson

I have seen Andrew every Monday for a month now, THANKS TO YOUR PRAYERS!

Last time he told me one of the men had been set free – it was the one who stood up for Andrew when necessary. He said others do not understand his culture (of course) and consider him unclean. Anyway, Andrew really felt his departure and was down.

He was also discouraged about the lack (seemingly) of action from the new administration.

On the bright side, the prison miraculously allowed 10 English books in to him.

Andrew's situation has made our church landlord nervous. He is asking us to be out at the end of March and he wants to sell the place. This is a blow because our location has proven to be a very good one – many people stop by to look inside, ask questions, take New Testaments and books and receive prayer. We need you to pray.

Update from the Luptons

"So you're saying that Jesus gives us a second chance? Oh, that changes everything!" Justin is a high school junior living in Bogotá while his father works in the U.S. Embassy. Last month he pulled Andrew aside during an event at Justin's school and asked if they could get coffee. Everything he thought Christianity was about (i.e. doing the right thing and having a clean life) had been challenged in the three months since he started attending our youth group as we spoke week after week of sin, salvation, and God's grace in Jesus. Christianity wasn't worth following if it meant that he had to live the perfect life. He was failing, like the rest of us. But one afternoon over a cup of fine Colombian coffee, he experienced freedom as he heard about what Jesus did for him. Grace changes everything.

About half of our high school youth group is unchurched. You might even consider some, like Justin's schoolmate, Fernando, antagonistic to Christianity. "I don't think it's appropriate to talk about religion. That's where many of the world's problems come from." Yet, he attends week after week. In fact, Fernando's mother isn't religious either, but she contacted us at the end of the year wanting to know how she could write a check to support the church's youth ministry.

And then there's Sharon, who is really worried about what exploring Christianity might mean for her. She's either going to disappoint her family or her peers. After a tearful conversation, she realized that trying to blend Christianity with other world religions isn't logical. But she also realized that staying apathetic or ignoring the matter altogether isn't safe either. "I have to find the truth."

Why do these students come week after week? It isn't because of the gimmicks. I can promise you that. Aside from the Holy Spirit's pursuit, it seems they attend for three reasons:

- They found a community where they belong
- They found caring and godly adults who regularly tell them that their story matters
- They are allowed to ask life's hard questions and are beginning to realize that Christianity makes sense of the world around them.

Laura Kate and I have moments where we say, "I can't believe we get paid to do this job!". Thank you for sacrificing so that we can stand at the intersection of the nations and the next generation proclaiming the good news of sinners who have a savior named Jesus. Please pray for students like Sharon, Fernando, and perhaps our new brother in the Lord, Justin. Pray that God's grace changes everything for them.

Gratefully, Andrew w/Laura Kate, Fox, Evie Jude, & Lucy

McKays February Update

We are continuing to adapt to the transition that defines the lives of most of the refugees here. Perhaps the greatest need is for love and relationship. The brother of one refugee man that we know well shared that he has noticed that it is only the Christians who come to visit and help, particularly in terms of Westerners.

One Syrian man has had his fill of life here, and wants to return to Lebanon where he lived for about 4 years. Little does he know that his two oldest daughters plan to stay here... having begun to be Westernized. These types of cultural clashes are all too common here. There is not enough power in the laws of religion to counter the forces of culture and sin. May His Spirit lead!!

Prayer/Praise:

- home sale in the U.S.
- meaningful local relationships for all of our family
- we are under $1,300/month for support need
- it is finally above freezing, weather-wise!!

Sandra has begun taking a weekly introductory Arabic course in order to help facilitate our communication. Sam and Ian continue to do well in school, both of them are learning German quickly. Thank you for your participation and support in Engaging the Displaced.

His peace, Adger, Sandra and boys

Update on George & Cynthia

Thank-you for continuing to pray for Cynthia and me. My blood work was checked again this morning and everything looked great. There are about 100 things listed on the report, most of which I have no idea what they mean but white blood cell count, red blood cell count, oxygenation, and blood pressure were all excellent.

Cynthia will see a Dr. to start investigating whether or not she has arthritis in her neck and if so is it causing the headaches that she has experienced recently. If it is there, and if it is causing the headaches please ask God to heal her and for the Dr.s to have wisdom in what we need to do.

We do hope to go back in May. From a health standpoint, we should be ready although that depends some on what we find out about Cynthia's neck and possible arthritis. We hope to see our ministries expand, especially Cynthia's teaching of art to more students and ladies and to looking into the possibility of me teaching English.

We do need to raise more support to be able to afford these increases in supplies and for a larger apartment so that we can host more students. Please lift us up for God to put it on more churches to work with us and more individuals to consider supporting us even if only in small amounts. We are not walking in fear with this ahead of us but we really are trusting God to meet to needs for what He is telling us to do. Thank you for your prayers, love, and support!

In Him, George and Cynthia

Update on Timothy and Emily Bantola

Greetings from Orlando, Florida! That's right, we've moved! We still have about 5% left before we reach our monthly financial goal and can officially report to our assignment. But we have made a big step and, in faith, moved to Orlando in preparation for reporting. We are overjoyed to be here and loving our new apartment and neighborhood. Ephraim started walking in the midst of this move.

We are looking forward to working with operations teams such as the Mongolian Operations Team. Did you know that today there are more churches than Buddhist temples in Mongolia? Religious freedom is written into the national constitution and a Christian television station regularly airs a message of hope in Jesus. We are beyond excited to be so close to starting in our roles in Global Operations, equipping teams around the world to build ministry capacity so that more people can hear about Jesus.

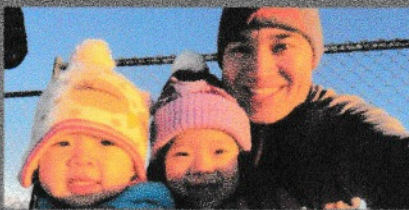

FEBRUARY 2017

Above: About 1400 people attended this year's Veritas forum! Many great spiritual conversations have been cultivated from this night!

Prayer

- Please praise God for the student leaders in their motivation to live out their faith in conviction and love other students with the love of Christ. Please pray that this vision would not die out.
- Praise God for transformed lives of Huiwu, Ambika, and Nataliya. Please pray for their protection and growth in Christ.
- Please pray for our upcoming Men's and Women's retreats (Feb 10-12th and 17-19th)...for freedom from enslavement to sin, and deep bondedness with other students.
- Please praise God for such an amazing turn out and response from our Veritas Forum!

It Started With Prayer and Fasting...

In Isaiah 58 we read about what true fasting looks like. The motivation of seeking the Lord's face and interceding on behalf of the broken, and poor, and oppressed. This is what fueled us to have us and our 50 student leaders have a 2 day fast together as we started this new semester. There has been a noticeable lacking in spiritual fervor and zeal in our movement, and we are not ok with that. We don't want to be lukewarm Christians. So we fasted together and spent a weekend praying and worshipping, confessing sin, and interceding on behalf of our campus. Our student leaders and we left the retreat filled and invigorated with fresh vision over how God could use us to share the gospel boldly on campus, and be looking for ways to tangibly move toward others with the love of Christ this semester. As a result, we would say that we are full of faith that Jesus is beckoning students to himself, and we want to be part of it more and more. Just this last weekend, two international students, a guy Huiwu from China and Ambika from India, surrendered their lives to Christ. We have a few students (Dave, Emily, Kayla, Caleb, and others) who have devoted their time to investing in international students, over last semester and this semester, and over the weekend, the Lord did a powerful work in their lives. Please pray for Ambika and Huiwu that their faith would remain strong and that they would grow to maturity in their new faith in Christ.

On a similar note, we have had the joy of seeing one of our neighbors, Nataliya, grow in her new faith. Just 2 weeks ago, Nataliya's in-laws came to her house and shared the gospel with her as she was going through some hard things. The next day, her in-laws (visiting from out of town) brought her to E-Free on a day when Matt just so happened to be helping lead worship. With tears in her eyes, she told Matt about how she had fully surrendered her life to Christ and was experiencing the peace of God in the face of all these hard things she is experiencing. Over these past 2 weeks, MeeHee has had the privilege of taking Nataliya through follow-up Bible studies and teaching her the fundamentals of following Jesus. How sweet it is to see God moving all around us. What a privilege to get to see God moving and transforming lives.

Over the next two weekends, we are poised in expectation and hope that God will continue in this saving, transforming work as we pull away for our annual men's and women's retreats. Please pray for students to surrender all to Christ, and to experience true fellowship there!

From the Krieg's Newsletter

God is not limited. He continues to impress on me (on us) that he works with the infinite rather than the finite. The spaces that I am weak, God is strong; the places that I feel out of my element, God has been there before.

Without fail, there will be a time in counseling where I am feeling inadequate. I will sit there listening to the pain and heartache that my client is expressing and know that I do not have the ability to change the situation.

But God can.

We have said for a while now that distance counseling through video conferencing is about 90% as good as face to face, but I need to amend that statement. Because while tele counseling may feel limiting to my human self I need to remind myself that the God I serve is not limited by anything.

Limitless.

God bless!

Matt (for both of us)

With Gratitude:

We have our first Australian client! It's so cool to expand our reach through video chat counseling through Thera-Link. God is not limited!

We are still working with Preston Sprinkle and Clare DeGraaf to hopefully put something together to work together at some level...more info to come on this. It's still exciting no matter what that God is moving in this area.

Matt has been meeting with counselors in the area to train in how to journey well with LGBTQ/SSA clients. It's neat to see him grow as a leader, and for us to learn from others.

For Prayer:

Matt is speaking at the No Regrets men's conference this week. We are both speaking at Wellspring Church in a couple weeks. Please pray for an outpouring of God's Spirit to make all hearts turn to Him.

Laurie is still writing—putting what Matt and Laurie have learned through their experience and practice to paper to train others, and offer material for LGBTQ/SSA people to process on their own.

Thanks for praying for the conference details for our Caring Well conference. God is slowly plinking them in place!

We are starting to help some churches more concretely with how to navigate the LGBTQ conversation and legal pieces. Honestly, we feel over our heads most days, but “he who calls [us] is faithful” (1 Thess. 5:24). We can't; he can.

Keep praying for clients and people with whom we interact online to come to know Jesus more and more deeply.

We are leading Soul Healing groups starting this month. We have both been in groups like this before and grew a lot from them. Pray for us to lead as the Spirit leads, and for lives to be transformed because of Jesus.

Our nation is so divided, and all of us need Jesus. Please, continue to pray for our nation...
